Social Studies and Science:

Thanksgiving Theme.

What We’ve Practiced This Week

Reading: Reading time this week was packed with practicing the letter Nn (eh-neh)! We learned the syllables na-ne-ni-no-nu, identified words with the letter Nn, and determined if a word had the letter Nn at the beginning or the end. Besides this, we talked about characters from stories, summarized important story events, learned to read the word “no,” and practiced our motions for each letter sound.

Math: This week started a new math unit that focuses on comparing size and ordering objects according to their size. We looked at real objects and different story scenes to learn how to compare objects using the words grande, pequeño, alto, and bajo.

Writing: This week we reviewed our school and classroom rules and then wrote about them! While we wrote, we practiced the sight words yo, no, en, la and el. We also worked on punctuation, capitalization, and leaving space between our words as we wrote our books.

Fall Theme: We had a great time learning about math this week as we talked about fall! We started the week by reading a book about different things that happen in fall. Then, we practiced comparing the size of different leaves and using the words grande and pequeño. Finally, we went on a leaf hunt, collected different colored leaves, and graphed what we had found!

Announcements and Reminders

Scholastic Book Orders

October's Scholastic book order has arrived. If you ordered books, look for them today in your child's backpack. Remember you can place your Scholastic order online to earn rewards for yourself and for our classroom. There are also many more book options available online! Our activation code is LJRY2. November's order will be submitted on the 28th.

Book It!

There are Pizza Hut coupons in the Friday Folders of those who completed October's Book It! challenge. A new calendar for the month of November was sent home in Friday Folders last week so that your child can record the days that they read this month. Remember that the goal is to read four to five nights a weekend for at least twenty minutes. Keep reading! ☺

Student Attendance

If your child will be late or absent, please call the school attendance line at 457-8488 ext. 2699. I very much appreciate also receiving an email to let me know that your child will be absent or tardy, but I don't always have a chance to check my emails in the morning once the school day has begun. It helps if the office already knows that your child is expected to be absent. Thanks for your help!

Math in Focus

This week we began a new math unit! To learn more about what we are studying, look for the School-to-Home Connection page in your child's Friday Folder.
